GREETINGS from the Dollhouse ***** May, 2021

WITHINGTON AUCTION, Inc.

Hillsborough, NH

After the long winter, our first venture out was a quick overnight in Maine... having experienced all the abnormality of living in a Covid world. Restrictions on assembly, holidays, shopping, concerts, air travel, family gathering, have made any travel feel like you were doing something illegal! So donning our masks, we made the three hour trip to pick up a doll collection in the old coastal town of Bath, ME. The lovely restored home was in the historic district, just a few blocks from the harbor, where the newly resurrected boat-building industry was booming. Our hosts were cordial and welcoming... but with their 10 feet of social distance and double masking, it was evident that they were not totally convinced that the risk factor of contamination from a couple of outsiders was never totally removed. Perhaps our living in a small New Hampshire town, with low population, very few Covid 19 cases, we have never felt the immediate threat of the pandemic. But our job is self-generated and we needed little help with the project. The family made themselves available if needed and the project went smoothly. We found a local Seafood Pub nearby, with good food and social distancing. We were impressed by how many locals were out walking or running spending time in the sea air, at play with the dog or the kids... and just enjoying the time away from their at-home work stations. It seemed like a good place to wait out the crisis. We finished packing, spent the night at the hotel and the trip home was uneventful... no negative feedback for going out of our environment. This was the jumpstart to the 2021 season, and it was nice to have a collection of better dolls to reinforce our enthusiasm for what lies ahead. The future is uncertain, the time line of when the world will open up is sketchy at best, so the first doll auction will have to be by absentee method... at least until we have guidelines to follow.

With the arrival of spring, the world started to open up - we traveled to southern Connecticut to scout out a doll collection in an "extreme collector's" house. A total house cleanout, normally handled by Pandora's Box estate sales, we met our old doll friend, protected by face masks and fist bumps, but it was evident that some health issue precluded any event with a large group in attendance. This modest purple ranch, appeared deceptively small from the outside, but the interior revealed an open concept, lofty ceilings, and was the stage for many collections: Dishes, glass & China, wall art.. among others. An avid sewer, she spent her life making custom drapery and upholstery for the best decorators in the area. Antique sewing machines, both large and toy-size, fine textiles, clothing trims & lace. There were wonderful examples of Eastlake walnut furniture... if it was 15 years ago... but there's just no market for it today! Like a box of chocolates, we selected hand-painted dresser sets, silver lidded powder jars, Art Deco prints, fancy work.... just to add variety to the upcoming auction. After the house-tour, it was time to address the elephant in the room - the Doll collection, which had taken over most of the living-dining room. We were appreciative of the efforts of her family, trying to make some order out of this collection gone awry! Predominantly open-mouth doll-faced dolls, half-dressed or wig-less, missing a leg ... project dolls, waiting for that mini-makeover that never came. So often the motivation to start a doll business with little investment and some creativity for future sale and potential profit. From the mostly unfinished projects in the many plastic bins, the plans for profit were never realized. Sometimes the imagination is stronger than the actual activity. Thankfully, we were able to pick and choose, selecting the best of the collection to find some things to make it worthwhile for all of us. In this business, I learned a long time ago, you win some - you lose some... and sometimes the game should have been rained out!

While packing up for the return trip to New Hampshire, I checked in at the office and Larry gave me a phone number of a sweet old gent, who had his wife's doll collection - she had passed over fourteen years ago and he finally made the decision to find new homes for her beloved dolls. After the long day, we scheduled a visit to Southampton, MA, to meet and see the doll collection. As Larry and I reflect on our lives in the antiques world, we realize that our love of "old stuff" started while still in college. As an art student, a course in the History of Art in the United States opened my eyes to the decorative arts, painting, American furniture and the opportunity to visit The Yale University Art Gallery and their extensive collection of Americana! At the same time, one of my best friends still lived with her parents.... they were avid antiques collectors, restorers, refinishers. through them I soon learned of the greatest sources for affordable antiques was the weekly auction house.. ya never know what you're going to find! As I recall, at my first auction, my budget was 20 bucks (which included super). I was immediately enchanted, the crowd pushing for a better look, the excitement of the competition..... everyone had a chance. I bought a picnic chest and a lace Christening gown, (which I still have). I was hooked and 50 years of total immersion in antiques, and a half dozen antiques shops later, I have had the opportunity to meet so many legends of the antiques trade... most of them have gone to the big auction in the sky.

We were familiar with this part of the Conn River Valley, which still retains many period homes of the original settlers to the area. Just as he described it a garrison saltbox, surrounded by stone walls and acres of fields. Instantly, it was like meeting an old friend. Through our conversations, Charlie must have been nearly 90 years, though you would never know it! The family homestead, was the house he grew up in, and had been sold many years ago. He restored other houses, while raising a family of his own. But seizing the opportunity to acquire the homestead once again in later life. A lumberman by trade, he always had an interest in American antiques, and as a skilled woodworker started doing restorations for some major names in the antiques trade. Lumbering... was too much work and not enough money, so he decided to nurture the buying and selling the antique treasures found in this fertile valley.. a decision he would never regret.

The old homestead was a living museum, filled with choice treasures from historic America: samplers, Staffordshire, portraits, Sawbuck table, tiger maple slant-lid desk, Conn Valley Tall clock, iron, Oriental rugs, and on... Our meeting took place at the period hutch table, sitting in paint-decorated Windsor chairs, in front of the huge cooking fireplace. We immediately started talking antiques - Who's who? Wayne Pratt, Albert Sack... stories of exceptional tall chests, and paintings that dreams were made of..(ya heard the one about the small painting found with a doll collection in Boston...? Yep... $313,000. it brought! ) Highboys and blanket boxes, Boston tea tables. and more! Back in the 50's & 60's, the antiques trade was exploding there were multiple buyers, for any great piece and he knew where to find them. Rarely kept his shop open, rather had a dozen or so customers for whom he was like a personal shopper. He could spot a piece and almost guarantee who would be lucky enough to buy it! He was friends with Dick Withington, though buying at auction was not his norm.... but later it was the dolls who brought them closer. Through so many contacts and a stellar reputation, he was constantly called to have first dibs on a fresh piece, new to the market, and everyone knew he was the source for the best.

As we all know the antiques business is a 7-day a week job and you have to strike while the iron is hot. For his lovely wife, Shirley, she didn't share the passion for furniture.... but became interested in a trunk full of old dolls that showed up at the house along with the furniture recently picked. Charlie gave her the dolls and this was the seed that began a life's passion for the dolls. Shirley was a skilled seamstress, and had a natural ability with color and design, so the dolls were a perfect fit.. She had found her passion and embraced it. Living in Southampton, was just a few minutes away from Doll Collector/ Dealer, Dolly Driscoll in Northampton, (her phenomenal collection we sold in 2009). Shirley found, in Dolly, a collector, mentor and doll friend and through her, soon joined forces with the legendary Maureen Popp, and together they explored the doll world. Shirley spent most of her time developing her doll business, called "the Pink Parasol"... and we have her precious silk umbrella which adorned her table at every show. She was a familiar face at the local auctions and found some rarities like the Clement Fashion at a local sale. She would attend Withington's Doll Auctions, making the trip to New Hampshire in search of dolls. A natural at display and marketing, she always did well at the shows, with buyers flocking to her table before all others. Along with boxes of doll's clothes, wigs, shoes, parts and more, we feature the personal collection of Shirley Fisher. It has occupied an honored place in the guest bedroom in the lovely old homestead in Southampton... Now it's time to take their place among many other collections.

So this first auction of 2021, has something for everyone. From early papier Mache and woodens, to high-style French Fashions and Bebes. There is antique furniture, and dolls' dresses and accessories..... Artist dolls and modern. Remember you have 8 days to bid - enjoy the ride..

May all your Doll Dreams come true.

*Sincerely,
Larry & Marcia*
